DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 48,49,50,52 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Aigasa et al (US 6,680,931).

Aigasa et al discloses a bit interleaving method, comprising; permuting coded bits of a OFDM symbol stream and generating interleaved symbols (see Time interleaver 106) and permuting each group of bits associated with each interleaved OFDM symbol and generating interleaved OFDM tones within each symbol (see Frequency interleaver 110).

Note the coded bits from Channel encoder 105 are designated as “a OFDM symbol stream” although not yet OFDM modulated because the present application likewise uses the same term for encoded bits, prior to OFDM modulation. See Fig.3 which shows mapping the interleaved tones to OFDM symbols, i.e., OFDM modulation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2611

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claim 51 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aigasa et al (US 6,680,931) as applied to claim 48 above in view of Maltsev et al (US 2005/0135493).

Aigasa et al discloses all the subject matter claimed except for adding pad bits when the number of bits is insufficient. Maltsev et al teaches an interleaver that add padding bits to fill remaining positions of the interleaver. Thus, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to add padding bits to the symbol stream when the encoded data bits are insufficient to fill the interleaver matrix as taught by Maltsev et al.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 1-47 are allowed.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
